Thank you Lozier Foundation!

Change is good. Since June of 2003 when the full time Continuing Education program began at Ollie Webb Center, Inc. we have seen growth, we have seen change, and we have welcomed many students through our doors. But in all that time, perhaps the biggest change happened in the last year. Thanks to a major grant from the Lozier Foundation this past year, our students are currently enjoying 1,800 additional square feet of classrooms, a computer center, and much, much more!

As we have grown over the years it became more and more apparent that we were in need of a bigger space. The Lozier grant has gifted exactly that – more space. In addition to the increased space, the grant also equipped each new classroom with a smart, internet accessible flat screen television, which serves as a great tool to support our outstanding curriculum. In addition to offering a larger room for our theatrical and visual art endeavors, the expanded space also boasts a new restroom and a washer and dryer, which support our efforts to help students adapt to independent living within our academic program. Students and their families and friends who have seen the expansion have been unanimously, wildly impressed. Ultimately, the addition has allowed us to better serve all of our students and meet their educational needs.

In all these years we have seen many changes and it is always welcome because, at the core of it, adaptation to change and continual growth are important lessons we teach our students daily. Thanks to the Lozier Foundation we have seen some of the greatest changes yet! So here’s to change and growth in the present and the many years to come!
Put Your Honey to Use

Honey Bee Ice Cream

Ingredients:
- 1 cup honey
- 5 cups milk, divided
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs
- 12 ounce can evaporated milk
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 2 ½ teaspoons vanilla

Instructions:
Melt honey in saucepan with 1 cup of milk. Add salt to warm milk in pan. In blender, mix eggs, evaporated milk, honey mixture, cream and vanilla. Pour mixture into ice cream maker’s freezer container. Add remaining milk to fill line. Follow manufacturer’s instructions for preparing ice cream. When ice cream is hard, drain off water and wrap in a towel. Let stand for 1 hour before serving. Makes 24 servings.

The Buzz on Honeybees

Only the Queen in the hive lays eggs. The Queen communicates with her hive by her own special scent called pheromones. The Queen will lay around 1,500 eggs per day. All worker bees are female and they do all the work for the hive. Workers perform the following tasks inside the hive as a House Bee: Cleaning, feeding the baby bees, repairing honeycombs, fanning to cool the hive and guarding the hive. If a worker bee uses her stinger, she will die. All drone bees are male. Their only job is to find a queen. Male bees fly out and meet in special drone congregation areas where they hope to meet a queen. Male drone bees don’t have a stinger.

This event is for individuals of any age who have a developmental or intellectual disability and their families. It is hard to predict how any individual with an intellectual disability will behave in an emergency situation. Because of this, Fire and Safety Day is an excellent opportunity to meet face to face with emergency personnel, explore and learn about firetrucks, firefighter gear, ambulances, seat belt safety, first aid, poison control, 911, and more that could one day keep us safe in an emergency situation.

Bring the whole family out for an afternoon jam-packed full of activities designed to provide your family with fire safety education as well as summer fun. See the rescue helicopter land and watch the firefighters put out a live fire! The fire training facility is a state of the art facility with room to accommodate everyone. Bring swimsuits and sunscreen for the kids so they can enjoy playing in large water sprinklers at the end of the day.

PRISM (Parent Resource Information and Support Meetings) is a monthly resource for families of individuals with developmental disabilities to access emotional support, education, and services. This outreach project enables families to lessen the stress and mental strain of not knowing where to get answers, combined with the knowledge to prepare their family member with special needs to be classroom, work-force and life ready.

Families are the primary source of support for their child with disabilities. Providing this support presents families with additional responsibilities and pressures, over and beyond typical responsibilities. Families face issues of planning special education programs, coordinating a network of medical care, securing adaptive equipment, accessing job training opportunities, and providing for the future security of their children. In order to keep up with these demands, parents need considerable knowledge and skills. To remain intact and strong, families need the emotional support of other families who understand the unique daily challenges they face. Strong families provide the environment that best serves their child to become happy, productive and self-sufficient citizens of society.

PRISM offers a minimum of eight events for training and support that provide information from speakers that are experts in the field of disability related topics. These events provide Parents a forum to receive the latest information and be able to discuss and ask questions. The opportunity for networking between families is one of the most rewarding aspects of the PRISM Project.

The PRISM Project is sponsored by the Arc of Omaha at Ollie Webb Center, Inc., with assistance from the United Way of the Midlands and the Nebraska Department of Education.

The Continuing Education program is excited to announce several new class offerings available this coming summer session. Over the years we have had many students who have expressed dreams of working in radio, television, or simply having podcast shows on the internet or YouTube. We are reciprocating that desire with our first new class called “Introduction to Broadcasting.” With an emphasis on emerging technologies, students will explore scriptwriting and storytelling techniques as they spend the session creating a video portfolio.

A second new class offering is “Child Development.” In this course students will develop skills related to childcare (birth to 3 years), both for parents as well as individuals interested in pursuing work with children. The class covers topics such as feeding and diapering, along with other topics related to general safety, traveling with a baby, and play time activities that stimulate development, to name just a few!

We will also be exploring the daily world around us in a third new offering called “Current Events.” Primarily an effort to encourage student awareness of the events surrounding their daily lives both locally and nationally, the course is aimed at helping students develop social skills, which enable them to engage in “small talk” at work and school as both are formal environments where subjects of a personal nature are typically frowned upon. We want our students to be socially professional and we want people to pay attention to the world around them and their valued place within it – this class embraces both!

And speaking of the world around us, a fourth new offering is our “Travel and Transportation” class. Students will learn about walking, riding, biking and flying to just about anywhere they possibly can afford to go, be it within the immediate community or vacationing with family or friends. This class is a practical application of self-advocacy in that all people should know how to independently “get around town” if they are capable of doing so. We are looking forward to exploring our community through accessing transportation. It’s going to be so much fun! Students looking to develop their skills related to taking a bus should definitely look into this class. See you this summer!

Here are the class descriptions:

Introduction to Broadcasting  Students enrolled in Introduction to Broadcasting will discover a world of emerging technologies, as well as time tested storytelling and scriptwriting assignments. The class will cover basic terminology and technology necessary to create small video projects such as Vines. The ability to create video based projects will allow students to enter the world of visual media which is so prevalent in society today. This creativity will hopefully spark an interest in video journalism, comedy, public service, school initiatives, community activities, and much more. Students will create a video portfolio containing projects produced throughout the semester.

Child Development 1  Do you have a desire to work with children in a day care setting? Are you a parent? This class is for you! During this class we will discuss wide ranging topics related to children from birth to 3 years old. The curriculum covers topics such as feeding, diapering, and clothing a small child as well as lessons on essential safety, traveling with a baby, and appropriate play time activities that stimulate development.

Current Events  This course is structured to give individuals an understanding of current issues in many areas of a political, social, and economic nature. This information can be used by individuals to build social relationships at work, for dinner time conversations, or to broaden an individual’s experiences. The course is fluid in nature, meaning that the topics and the amount of coverage on the topics will fluctuate on any given day, week, or month depending on topics current in the media. The instructor will use various learning strategies to explore current events, leading students to a deeper understanding of what is happening in the world around them.

Travel and Transportation  Do you walk, ride a bike, ride the bus, drive a car, or ride in airplanes? We all encounter transportation every day of our lives. Being able to navigate transportation is essential to working, going to school, and enjoying recreational opportunities. This course covers safety, time management, and planning related to travel. We will be going for walks, discussing bike safety, completing bus training, and exploring preparation related to airplanes.
