ANNUAL MEETING
OLLIE WEBB CENTER, INC.

Monday, November 16, 2015 • 7:00 p.m.
St. Leo Church - 1920 North 102nd Street
Please enter by the south door on the circle drive.

Ollie Webb Center, Inc. is seeking nominations for its annual Community Partnership Awards. The awards recognize professionals, friends, or volunteers who have made a significant difference in the lives of children, adolescents, and adults with developmental disabilities. The awards include:

Community Leader: A professional who has made a significant difference in the life or lives of children, adolescents or adults who have a developmental disability.

Inclusion Leader: Someone in the community (from a non-disability organization or group) who has shown exemplary inclusion of individuals with developmental disabilities.

Volunteer of the Year: An individual who has voluntarily provided invaluable assistance or support, making a positive impact on the life or lives of individuals with developmental disabilities.

Contact Lisa Dougherty at 402.346.5220, ext. 22 or ldougherty@olliewebbinc.org by Wednesday, November 4, to nominate someone for a Community Partnership Award.

The Arc of Omaha has a free Family Zoo Pass available for use by its 2016 members. It allows two adults and four children to visit the Henry Doorly Zoo. Please note the following rules for its use:

1. The pass can be used anytime the zoo is open.
2. Families may use the pass as often as they like, as long as it is available.
3. Families using the pass must sign it out, giving their name, address, phone number, date of use and date returned. If a family misuses the pass, it is possible that the pass may not be available for them to use again.
4. When families arrive at the zoo, they must present the pass and check in at the Visitors Center.

Call Kerree at 402.346.5220 ext. 10, to reserve the Family Zoo Pass.
Start Using Honey For:
1. As a drizzle for desserts such as pudding, pancakes, ice-cream, oats and corn flakes.
2. As a sweetener for your tea, coffee, or smoothie recipes.
3. As a seasoning for barbecue spare ribs, pork chops or chicken wings before cooking.
4. As a salad dressing with olive oil and vinegar for the extra body.

The Buzz on Honeybees
When harvesting honey, a beekeeper needs to wear a protective suit, gloves, and veil, to prevent from getting stung. A smoker (a device that releases light puffs of smoke) is sometimes used to calm the bees that are agitated. After the combs have been removed from the hive, the wax coverings on the combs are removed and the honey is extracted. The beekeeper can do this by hand or with the help of a mechanical extractor. The honey is then purified by straining it and skimming any impurities away. The honey is then ready to be jarred and sold.

Beeswax Candles
Rare and expensive. Beeswax costs about 10 times more than paraffin. It is estimated that the bees must fly 150,000 miles to collect enough nectar to produce six pounds of honey just to secrete one pound of wax. And for every 100 pounds of honey harvested, the beekeeper can only obtain about 1-2 pounds of the beeswax.

2016 Arc of Omaha Membership Drive!
“Time and money spent in helping people to do more for themselves is far better than mere giving.” ~ Henry Ford

You are doing more than mere giving when you become a member of The Arc of Omaha. You are supporting efforts to help individuals with developmental disabilities and their families lead lives of greater independence, productivity, integration, inclusion and self-determination. By joining now, your membership will be valid for the calendar year 2016. Membership options are outlined below.

The privileges of membership in The Arc of Omaha include:
Use of the Ollie Webb Center, Inc. pass to the Henry Doorly Zoo, discounts to many activities and events for individuals of all ages sponsored by The Arc of Omaha, support from The Arc of Nebraska and The Arc of the United States, including representation at local, state and national policy forums and publications sharing important information on a variety of topics, and the satisfaction of supporting a local agency that informs the public of the needs, rights and abilities of individuals with developmental disabilities.

The Arc of Omaha 2016 Membership Form
Your membership will be valid from January 1 through December 31, 2016

People with disabilities are – first and foremost – people who have individual abilities, interests and needs. They are moms, dads, sons, daughters, sisters, brothers, friends, neighbors, coworkers, students and teachers. About 54 million Americans, one out of every five individuals, have a disability. Their contributions enrich our communities and society as they live, work and share their lives.

People with disabilities constitute our nation’s largest minority group, which is simultaneously the most inclusive and the most diverse. Everyone is represented: all genders, all ages, all religions, all socioeconomic levels and all ethnic backgrounds. The disability community is the only minority group that anyone can join at any time.

The language a society uses to refer to persons with disabilities shapes its beliefs and ideas about them. Words are powerful; Old, inaccurate, and inappropriate descriptors perpetuate negative stereotypes and attitudinal barriers. When we describe people by their labels of medical diagnoses, we devalue and disrespect them as individuals. In contrast, using thoughtful terminology can foster positive attitudes about persons with disabilities. One of the major improvements in communicating with and about people with disabilities is “People-First Language.” People-First Language emphasizes the person, not the disability. By placing the person first, the disability is no longer the primary, defining characteristic of an individual, but one of several aspects of the whole person. People-First Language is an objective way of acknowledging, communicating, and reporting on disabilities. It eliminates generalizations and stereotypes, by focusing on the person rather than the disability.

Disability is not the “problem.” For example, a person who wears glasses doesn’t say, “I have a problem seeing,” they say, “I wear/need glasses.” Similarly, a person who uses a wheelchair doesn’t say, “I have a problem walking,” they say, “I use/need a wheelchair.”

Our words and the meanings we attach to them create attitudes, drive social policies and laws, influence our feelings and decisions, and affect people’s daily lives and more. How we use them makes a difference. People First Language puts the person before the disability, and describes what a person has, not who a person is. Using a diagnosis as a defining characteristic reflects prejudice, and also robs the person of the opportunity to define him/herself.

Representation in the media:

Historically, people with disabilities have been regarded as individuals to be pitied, feared or ignored. They have been portrayed as helpless victims, repulsive adversaries, heroic individuals overcoming tragedy, and charity cases who must depend on others for their well being and care. Media coverage frequently focused on heartwarming features and inspirational stories that reinforced stereotypes, patronized and underestimated individuals’ capabilities.

Much has changed lately. New laws, disability activism and expanded coverage of disability issues have altered public awareness and knowledge, eliminating the worst stereotypes and misrepresentations. Still, old attitudes, experiences and stereotypes die hard.

People with disabilities continue to seek accurate portrayals that present a respectful, positive view of individuals as active participants of society, in regular social, work and home environments. Additionally, people with disabilities are focusing attention on tough issues that affect quality of life, such as accessible transportation, housing, affordable health care, employment, opportunities and discrimination.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT!

Janey Ulmer

Janey Ulmer comes to us with over thirty years of experience. The most recent serving as a Surveyor Consultant for the State of Nebraska where she reviewed agencies and programs for compliance and recertification. Prior to that, Janey worked as a Program Coordinator and QA Specialist for a local service provider and was employed as a Service Coordinator for the State of Nebraska.

After graduating with highest distinction while earning her Bachelors of Science degree in Special Education, Janey served as a teacher, school board member, and advocate for individuals with special needs. Janey has a heart for this field as she is the parent of a child with special needs and has experience determining, obtaining, and providing services for individuals with special needs from several aspects.

Janey is the mother of four children and when not advocating for our students, she enjoys remodeling and taking gourmet cooking lessons.
